CHRISTMAS MUSIC IS FEATURE OF VESPERS

Choir and Glee Clubs Give Impressive Program in Chapel Sunday.

TILLER PLAYS VIOLIN

Candle-light Service and Singing of Carols Add to Spirit of the Season.

The Christmas vesper service at Mead memorial chapel was celebrated last Sunday by a musical program in which the choir, the men's and women's glee clubs and Mr. Tiller, participated.

The chapel was decorated for Christmas. The overhead lights had been extinguished and in each window burned a row of little candles. On the platform were two candelabras and in the west window an illuminated wreath with a single red candle on each side of it.

The prelude, "Jesu Bambino" by Yon was played by Miss Fish, and during this number, the choir, from the front vestibule, sang "Silent Night" without the accompaniment of the organ.

After the prologue "O Come All Ye Faithful" in which the whole college took part, the choir sang two other numbers also without accompaniment: the delicate "O How a Rose 'Ere Blooming" of Praetorius, and "The Annunciation", a Bas Querey carol.

The college again joined in "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear" and then the women's glee club sang the "Winter Legendry" by Gaines.

A violin solo by Mr. Tiller, Schumann's "Traumerei" followed, after which the quartette made up of members of the choir sang the "Holly and the Ivy" of Boughton, again without accompaniment which heightened the almost ethereal quality of this number.

A fourteenth century Latin hymn was

KALEIDOSCOPE WORK PROGRESSING WELL

Business Manager Announces All Year Book Fees to Be Payable Immediately Following Christmas Recess.

John Storm, business manager of the 1932 Kaleidoscope, has announced to the members of the junior class that all year book fees will be payable in full immediately following the Christmas recess. Printing and engraving bills will soon fall due, and Mr. Storm emphasized the necessity of full payment at an early date. The amount due from each junior is ten dollars.

The editor-in-chief, Kirkland Sloper, has received the largest portion of the copy for the Kaleidoscope ,and all indications lead to the conclusion that there will be no trouble in publishing the book by junior week. All work is up to the schedule which was previously planned. Over two hundred pictures have been sent to the engraver in order that the cuts may be received on time.

It is planned that the cover of the 1932 Kaleidoscope will be one of the most ambitious outlays attempted in Middlebury. Suggestions have been drawn by three different professional artists, each representing one of the largest concerns in the country. The general idea of the cover will harmonize with the theme of the book, Middlebury's mountain campus. The artists have been given much leeway in their specifications, and as a result, original ideas have been worked into the covers with much success.

Reamer Kline and Elizabeth Lee, literary editors, have completed the writeups of the junior section. Orgin-

Literati Ball Committee Features Novel Program

A program made up as a miniature newspaper is one of several novelties to be presented at the Literati Ball, January 17, according to announcement of the committee in charge.

Students planning to attend will be requested to hand in to committee members the names of their preferences for exchanges. The committee wishes to make out each program individually in order to avoid confusion.

Fourteen dances are planned for the Ball, of which the following are open for exchanges: third, fifth, sixth, ninth, eleventh, and twelfth. There will be three extras. Those handing in preferences are requested to specify the dance number, according to this list.

"CASEY" JONES TO SPEAK ON AVIATION

Aviator Scheduled for January 9; Vocational Guidance Committee Also Plans Speakers on Publishing, Retailing and the Law.

Charles (Casey) S. Jones '15, will be the first speaker to come to Middlebury under the auspices of the vocational guidance committee. He will give a talk on aviation. At the present time Mr. Jones is well known in aviation circles in the country, being president and manager of the Curtiss Flying Service, inc. He won distinction in the aviation service during the war and since then has won several peace-time honors, the latest being the victory in the fifty miles cabin-plane race at Chicago last year. Mr. Jones will speak in Hepburn social hall, the evening of January 9, 1931, at 7 p. m.

Other speakers for the series, but for whom the dates have not been set, include men who will speak on publishing, retailing, law, medicine, and banking. These men are well known in their fields. Allen H. Nelson '01, will speak on the publishing business. Mr. Nelson is now vice president of the MacMillan Publishing company.

Joseph P. Kasper '20, will speak on the retail form of business. At present, Mr. Kasper is merchandise councillor for R .H. Macy & Co. Another of the speakers will be Percival Wilds '02, who will speak on law. Mr. Wilds is a prominent lawyer in New York city and is a member of the firm of Chamberlin, Kafer, Wilds, and Jube.

Dean Worth Hale, of Harvard Medical School, will speak on medicine. The Hon. Levy Smith, vice president of the New England council and a prominent Burlington banker, will speak on banking as a vocation.

No dates have been set for these speakers, with the exception of Mr. Jones on January 9, but they will be announced later, together with other speakers, for whom arrangements are now being made. The committee is endeavoring to obtain speakers on all the major vocations. Each man is a leader in his line.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA FAVORABLY RECEIVED

Production Marked by Outstanding Chorus and Solo Work.

FEAR IS DIRECTOR

Elly Delfs, Men's Trio and Orchestra Feature First Performance of Christmas Season.

"The Cradle of Bethlehem", a Christmas cantata by Irenee Berge, was presented in Mead Memorial chapel, Friday evening, December 12, under the direction of Miss Minnie Hayden. This was the first of the programs of the Christmas season, and was well received by a large audience.

The college orchestra, led by Prof. Alfred Larsen, opened the program with two selections, "Coronation March" by Meyerbeer, and the Introduction and Prayer "Rienzi" by Wagner. Both pieces were excellently played, but perhaps the second found more favor with the audience.

The solo work of the cantata was done by students of the voice department. Elly Delfs '33, gave an alto solo, "Fear not for behold I bring good tidings", which was the outstanding feature of the evening. It showed unusual quality of tone, and had a singularly full and rich beauty. Among the other numbers, the selection of the men's trio, "We Three Kings of Orient Are" was particularly impressive. It was sung by Ralph Locke '31, Harold Sniffen '31, and Thomas Miner '32.

The cantata was conducted by Richard A. Fear '31, who, though new to this type of directing, has had experience in leading the men's glee club, and showed himself very competent. Dorothy Johnson '31, and Cleone Ford '32, accompanied at the organ and piano respectively. The choral club furnished the chorus singing, and did infinite credit to Miss Hayden, who trained them, for hardly one of them has had any experience in either glee club or choir. They accompanied the solo numbers and also sang several carols.

"The Cradle Song" to Be Presented Tonight

Tonight and tomorrow night the Middlebury Dramatic club will present "The Cradle Song" at the college playhouse.

This play is the first long drama the club has given this year. The scene is laid in a Spanish convent, and over the whole is a note of delicacy and restraint. The life of the sisters is portrayed in an unusual and simple manner.

As the college is presenting no Christmas play this year "The Cradle Song", by reason of its nature, will take the place of the other.

Phi Beta Kappa Ceremony at Chapel Tomorrow

A public initiation of the members-elect of Phi Beta Kappa will be held Thursday morning at ten o'clock in Mead Memorial chapel.

The annual banquet of the society in honor of the newly elected members is to be given the same evening at the Middlebury Inn, at seven o'clock. Following the banquet, an address will be delivered by Dr. Albert Jay Nock, professor of political science and American history at Columbia university.

It is interesting to note that Dr. Nock was Brant Whitlock's confidential secretary in Belgium during the war, and was the one who begged for Edith Cavell's life the night before she was executed.

MIDDLEBURY WOMEN LOSE TWO DEBATES

B. U. Wins Here December 10; St. Lawrence is Victor at Canton December 11.—Professor Perkins Praises Speakers in Statement.

The first of the women's debates was held Wednesday evening, December 10, in Mead Memorial chapel. The team from Boston university which upheld the negative side of the question, resolved: "that the large part advertising plays in modern civilization is to be deplored," defeated the Middlebury team by a two to one decision. Mary Henseler '31, Jilda Pacheco '31, and Eva Tuttle '32, were the speakers for Middlebury. The judges were Mrs. A. W. Dickens, Miss Marion Gary, and Earl B. Krantz. Dr. Paul D. Moody presided.

A team made up of Ellen Kellogg '31, Jilda Pacheco '31, and Eva Tuttle '32, accompanied by the manager, Priscilla March '31, and the coach, Prof. P. C. Perkins, went to St. Lawrence, December 11, for the second debate of the season. There the Middlebury speakers were defeated by a vote of two to nothing. The question was, resolved: "that the United States should recognize Soviet Russia". Middlebury upheld the affirmative side.

The B. U. Debate.

The Middlebury team discussed advertising fro mthree angles, economic, ethical, and social. Economically speak-advertising increases the cost for the consumer and the cost of distribution, is unproductive, and leads to monoply. The evils of advertising are many. The fraudulent misrepresentation is dishonest and unfair to the consumer. National advertising is a spur for industries to compete against each other, and too much competition causes trade wars. There is no educational advantage in advertising, for all but ten per cent is purely an economic gain for the advertiser.

The visitors showed that advertising creates a desire to possess more goods, which stimulates buying, leads to greater production, and results in in-

VARSITY OPENS WITH WIN OVER CLARKSON

New Yorkers Defeated by One Point Margin Here Saturday.

PANTHER STRONG

New Team Shows Unexpected Power; Defense and Floor Work Good But Shooting is Poor.

The Middlebury varsity basketball team opened its season Saturday night by defeating the Clarkson Tech quintet, 19 to 18, in a hard fought game. The Blue and White's superiority in every phase of the game except the shooting department was in evidence throughout the contest, and the final score gives no real estimation of the Panther's ability. The Beckmen were in possession of the ball for at least two thirds of the time, and it was only due to the rustiness of their shooting eyes that the contest remained as close as it did.

Coach Beck put a new team on the floor in new uniforms — both looked good. Hoyle and MacKenzie, sophomore guards, proved to be a couple of scrappy players. They are fast and rugged, and should prove to be as good a pair of guards as any that have ever worn the blue and white. Corliss was unable to outjump his opponent at center, but showed himself to be a good floor man. Bullukian and Ashdown are the only two regulars that remain from last year's combination. Ashdown was high scorer of the game with nine points to his credit, and was a bulk of strength on the offense and defense. Bullukian tried hard, but could not find the hoop. He took numerous shots, mostly long ones, but was unable to get a single field goal. He will probably find his eye before the next game, and the Panther ad-

DEBATERS LEAVE FOR BOSTON TRIP

To Meet Keene Normal School Tonight; Tufts College and Boston University Thursday and Friday.

The men's varsity debating team, composed of Thomas J. Duffield '33, Edward Yerovitz '33, Reamer Kline '32, and William S. Weier '33, left today for Keene, New Hampshire where they will encounter the normal school team in the Spaulding gymnasium on the question, resolved, that the mechanical and scientific progress do not necessarily represent an advance in civilization. Middlebury will uphold the negative case.

In this conetst each team will be allowed three constructive speeches of ten minutes duration and three rebuttal speeches of five minutes duration. The Middlebury speaking order will be Duffield, Kline and Yerovitz.

Thursday evening the team will engage Tufts college, in Goddard hall, Medford, Mass. The proposition for debate is resolved, that adequate provision for censorship be incorporated into legislation. In consideration of this question it is understood that censorship shall include books, theatre, and the press, as regards morality and crime, but not religion and politics.

The Tufts team will be composed of Joseph M. Thornton '31, a member of Zeta Psi fraternity and connected with campus activities ;Warren E. Carley '32, a member of Zeta Delta Chi fraternity; Leo J. Doheny '31, a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity; and Edward C. Fearns '32, a member of Beta Kappa fraternity, as alternate.

The question should prove of unusual

Sinclair Lewis Praises Middlebury's Work in Creative Literature in His Speech Accepting Nobel Prize at Stockholm Last Friday

Middlebury College received a singular honor last Friday afternoon when Sinclair Lewis, winner of the Nobel Prize, referred to it in his speech delivered at the presentation ceremony as one of the four colleges in this country which has shown an actual interest in creative literature.

Mr. Lewis, in referring to our colleges, said: "I can think of four of them — Rollins college in Florida, Middlebury College in Vermont, the University of Michigan, and the University of Chicago which have shown an interest in contemporary creative literature."

He continued by bemoaning the tendency of American colleges to give a mere smattering of literature to the thousands of A. B. seeking students who have helped turn the institutions into Ford factories. He concluded the remarks regarding our educational institutions by saying that the majority of our professors "like their literature clear, cold, pure, and very dead."

Mr. Lewis' knowledge of the work done at Middlebury comes largely through his work at the Bread Loaf School of English, where as an acquaintance of the late dean, Wilfred E. Davison, he gave several lectures and conducted a number of informal discussions.

In his speech, Lewis praised the work of Willa Cather, Edith Wharton, Theodore Dreiser, Whitman, Melville, Mark Twain, Hemingway, and Thornton Wilder.

He stated that the influence of the Cambridge school is rapidly dying out, a good thing for American literature due to the decided English influence upon the men which largely stifled their Americanism. He also told his audience that William Dean Howells with his "genteel new humanistic philosophy" influence the later works of Mark Twain and converted Hamlin Garland from a writer much greater than himself into an "insignificant lecturer."

Upon his return to the United States from Stockholm, it is expected that Mr. Lewis will spend the winter in Westport, Connecticut, where he will complete the novel he is now working on, the subject and title of which are, at present, unknown.

The CAMPUS extends to students, faculty, and alumni its best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

CHRISTMAS VESPERS.

Words cannot fully express the beauty and impressiveness of the choral service presented in chapel last Sunday afternoon. Gleaming candlelight, rich organ tones, and perfected group singing produced a powerful effect that students will long remember. The splendid work of the men's and women's glee clubs, together with the college choir gave conclusive evidence of what student singers are capable. Enough credit cannot be given Miss Fish of the music department for her work in training the organizations for the service. It reflects the feeling of the student body for us to say that similar choral ceremonies in the future would be deeply appreciated.

VACATION.

In a few days we will be off for Christmas recess. Usually holidays mean a rather exhausting round of pleasure from which one returns to recuperate. As such they serve a legitimate purpose since there is a time and a place for fun and recess is as good as any. But there are things to be done which students can afford to look into during the holidays. We might catch up on those back assignments, get a little rest and relieve the nose from its routine pressure against the collegiate grindstone. Seniors can look around for a job; some of us should look after a few dollars. Others would wander about the more odorous sections of their home towns and observe how the lower half takes their "holidays,"—see the breadlines and the charity workers at their business. A few days of the next eighteen might be passed so that one can return with one or two back papers made up, at least; with a little wider viewpoint, if possible; with a sense of a vacation well spent, certainly.

Galley Grist

As the approaching Christmas season bodes so much gloom for the poor devils who are out of work in the cities and elsewhere, it might be well to exhort students to buy books for according to Messrs. Putnam, "the purchase of a book helps not one industry, but ten."

Well, if you wish to look at it that way, it's your own business. Personally, we have always considered the use of a worth-while book as a Christmas gift a delicate bit of flattery. However, do as you see fit. Of course you can still buy works of Zane Grey et. al. if you care to squander your shekels, but in case you're interested, here's a list of the most outstanding books of this season. No, we didn't like all of them, but you may find something in the list which will be of interest to the girl-friend at Smith, and something else which will fit for Aunt Esmerelda of Back Bay to digest her Christmas dinner over. Here goes:

Fiction.

"Cakes and Ale", by W. Somerset Maugham, Doubleday Doran, $2.00.

"The Deepening Stream", by Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Harcourt, $2.00.

"On Forsyte Change", by John Galsworthy, Scribners, $2.50.

"The Virgin and the Gypsy", by D. H. Lawrence, Knopf, $2.50.

"Seed", by Charles Norris, Doubleday Doran, $2.50.

"The Short Stories of Saki", by H. H. Munro, Dutton, $3.00.

"Twenty-four Hours", by Louis Bromfield, Stokes, $2.50.

"Laments for the Living," by Dorothy Parker, Viking Press, $2.50.

"Chances", by A. Hamilton Gibbs, Little, Brown & Co., $2.50.

"Fashions in Marriage", by Claude Farrere, Alfred A. King, $1.:50.

Shreds and Patches

It would seem that this Christmas is going to be a rather gloomy one for hundreds of thousands of persons who are out of work. We're sorry for the condition they're suffering from, but we do feel that they will be fortunate enough to escape the torment of deciding what to do with atrocious Christmas ties, bill-folds, trick cuff-links and the thousand natural Christmas shocks man is heir to. Nor will they have to decide the best cards to have monogramed, or join the crush in Macy's the 23rd.

Well, we wish you all a merry Xmas. (You can interpret the word 'merry' as you see fit. Don't forget to attend your last class, don't trust on getting the last train back to college, wear your red flannels when you go out-of-doors, don't go to see naughty shows, don't shock your parents or any relatives who may leave you some money some day — in other words, have a wonderful vacation.

If one took the announcement given between the halves at the game Saturday night literally, we expect that the gym dance floor would have been more crowded than the Cathedral of St. John the Divine was the other Sunday morning.

The freshman who took the shaving-brush cure in Starr the other night is reported to be gaining slowly. Miss Gunn says he may discontinue the Listerine diet Friday morning.

We recommend the following plays and musical shows if you can get seats for them: "Grand Hotel," "Elizabeth the Queen," "Roar China," "Overture," "Lysistrata," "This is New York," "On the Spot," "Vinegar Tree," "Tonight or Never," "Flying High," (held over from last season but it has Bert Lahr), "Girl Crazy," "Nina Rosa," "Fine and Dandy," "The New Yorkers". Failing to get seats, there's always the sung by the men's glee club; this number was especially remarkable for its crescendo and diminuendo effects. It also was sung without any accompaniment.

After the hymn "O Little Town of Bethlehem" the choir sang "Away in a Manger" one of Martin Luther's hymns, and an old French carol, "Bring a Torch Jeanette, Isabella".

Then the three groups, the choir and the two glee clubs, joined in the Hallelujah chorus from Handel's Messiah. The audience, as is customary, stood during the singing of this impressive refrain.

There is no criticism to make upon any feature of Sunday's program. No one could fail to be impressed by the selection and the rendering of the music. The performers seemed really to feel that deeper significance of the beauty of Christmas time which is so often forgotten amid the thousands of other things that fill the modern mind.

The singing around the Christmas tree, in the bitter cold, showed a great deal of spirit but little organization. Might not some one be designated to lead these carols? C.B.

KALEIDOSCOPE WORK PROGRESSING FAST

ality has been the keynote of their work, the writeups will appear in a new form and contain an impressionalistic analysis of the individual. Various members of the senior, junior, and sophomore classes have cooperated in the writing of this junior section.

Complete data concerning the other three classes has been prepared by Edward Anderson and Evelyn Clement, class editors. Russel Rayner and Georgianna Hulett, organization editors, have compiled statistics and write-ups concerning practically all of the organizations in the college. Copy that covers women's athletics and also the social functions has been received from Elsa Smith and Eleanor Benjamin, respectively. Louise Brayton, associate editor, has completely edited all copy submitted by the women's college and it is now ready for the printer.

Interesting snapshot panels of various college activities are being compiled by William Leggett and Nina Barber, photography editors. Warren Kay Vantine Studios announce that another shipment of individual portraits will probably arrive in Middlebury today.

The business staff, under the direction of Mr. Storm and Evelyn Benjamin, associate manager, promise unprecedented revenue to spend on features of the book. The advertising board, consisting of C. P. Bailey, William Horr, and Anne Coleman, are attempting to surpass the the amount of advertising space in past year books, and prospects for such a goal look very bright at the present time. James Olson, Rene Morize, Donald Whitney, Marian Singiser, and Christine Jones have been working continually on the circulation since the beginning of the year. It has passed the four hundred mark and is still rising.

Thus, at what may be called the half way mark in the publishing of a year book, the Christmas recess, the 1932 Kaleidoscope shows excellent progress, and with the definite schedule which is rigidly adhered to, no delay should be encountered in the course of the remainder of the work.

creased prosperity. Advertising has made possible mass production and mass distribution which give us better products at a lower price. Demands for goods are constant and uniform throughout the year. The advantages of advertising to the producer are the widening of his selling market, and the eliminating of inferior rival concerns. To the consumer, advertising gives information, saves time and effort, and eliminates inferior articles.

The St. Lawrence Debate.

Commenting on the St. Lawrence debate, the Middlebury coach, Prof. P. C. Perkins said:

'I can hardly say enough in appreciation of the work which our women did at St. Lawrence. I have never heard a team of women do better, and I have never felt more convincingly the adequate and complete support of any proposition. The organization, clarity, and method of presentation were all that any coach could desire. While the greatest praise should go to the team as a whole for the harmony and corelation of the issues of the case, I cannot refrain from mentioning the particular work of each speaker.

"Miss Pacheco presented a phase of the question always difficult to get over to an audience, the economic, with absolute and convincing clarity. Miss Tuttle presented the equally difficult matter of the esthetic life of Russia and our opportunity to aid in its expression, in a manner in which I had not dared to hope that any of our debaters could present it. And in rebuttal Miss Kellogg was superb. Her analysis of the standing of the debate at that point, and the force and clarity of her refutation could not, I believe, be improved upon. This contest was one of those rare ones which, because of Middlebury's abilit yto analyze and seize upon the important points, was, so far as our case is concerned, a real debate."

PARTY FOR HOSPITAL DRAWS LARGE CROWD

About 200 townspeople and college students were present at the Christmas party held at the Middlebury Inn December 12. The Addison County hospital corporation sponsored the affair and proceeds went to Porter hospital.

The "Middleburian's" played for a crowded dance floor until midnight. There were also card tables in the dining-room for whist, auction, and contract bridge.

A feature of the evening was Santa Claus who invited all to buy the presents which were taken from under the Christmas tree. These packages were found to contain novelty articles which caused much amusement.

THE COST OF A YEAR AT MIDDLEBURY

In order that prospective students might be given a fairly accurate estimate of the cost of a year at Middlebury, questionnaires were sent, at the end of the last academic year (1929-30), from the office of the Director of Admissions and Personnel to all men who had been in college during the year.

In compiling the following table, the returns for each item were arranged in order from lowest to highest amounts spent and the averages taken of the lowest quarter, middle half, and highest quarter.

Items of Expense	Average Lowest Quarter	Average Middle Half	Average Highest Quarter
Tuition *	$250.00	$250.00	$ 250.00
Laboratory and other fees	9.71	28.08	59.02
Room rent	61.64	87.47	133.19
Table board	219.04	253.70	290.79
Books and supplies	17.43	28.29	51.13
Laundry	6.62	19.98	36.60

NOTICE

Students are reminded of the library exhibit of all first editions owned by undergraduates. This will be held in January, immediately following the Christmas recess, so all are urged to bring back to college any books or pamphlets which may be of interest, and which they are willing to loan for the exhibit. Modern first editions will be welcome, as well as those of historical value.

Special Class and Train Schedule is Announced

The schedule of classes on December 19 will be as follows:

8:00 a. m. 8:05- 8:45
9:00 a. m. 8:50- 9:30
10:30 a. m. 9:35-10:15
11:30 a. m. 10:20-11:00
Chapel will be omitted.

The Christmas recess closes on January 5, classes beginning at 8:00 a. m. Tuesday, January 6.

A special southbound train will leave Middlebury Friday, December 19, at 12:50 p. m. This train will have coaches and pullman cars. Those desiring pullman reservations should make them as soon as possible at the local station. This train will be broken up at Rutland and attached to the regular New York and Boston trains. Students are urged to take the special rather than the regular train which leaves a few minutes later.

Attention is called to the fact that the evening train due in Middlebury around 10:00 p. m. has been discontinued and students are warned not to make a mistake in depending upon connections at the time of their return.

Garfield's Recipe for Success In Life Explained to Students in Chapel

Dr. Charles Baker, who has given more than 1000 talks to students all over the country, spoke in chapel this morning using as his theme Garfield's recipe for the successful person, namely that he must have a strong arm, a clear head and a brave heart.

LIBRARY READING BY THEODORE HADLEY '32

The third reading of the current winter series was delivered in the Abernethy wing of the library, 4:30 Friday afternoon, December 12. Theodore B. Hadley, '32, presented several selections from Stephen Vincent Benet's "John Brown's Body". This was the first reading of the series to be conducted by a student.

Mr. Hadley chose representative portions of that great work and illustrated the fine characterization and exceptional accuracy, historically, for which the book is famous. His selections included a scene from the slave-ship in mid-ocean; an account of the hero, Jack Ellyat, on an autumn tramp through the woods of Connecticut; and, parallel to this, a scene portraying Clay Wingate ploughing one spring afternoon in the fields of the South.

HOCKEY TEAM PLAYS HAMILTON FRIDAY

Two Strong Clubs to Clash at Clinton; Schedule to Include Brown Contest.

The Middlebury hockey team will begin a promising season Friday when they meet the Hamilton club at Clinton, N. Y. In spite of much unfavorable weather Coach Phelan's squad has had regular practice for nearly a month and can furnish at least a strong first team. The line-up against Hamilton will be Webster, goalie; Foote, right defense; Huntington, left defense; Nelson, center ice; Makela, right wing; Captain Crocker, left wing.

Hamilton is sure to do its part to make the game interesting, for they also have practically a veteran sextet and a very strong one, coached by Albert I. Prettyman, president of the intercollegiate hockey association. They are also aided by an indoor rink. Middlebury did well to squeeze out a two to one score over this team last year.

The schedule of eleven games is now complete and requires only eonugh cold weather to thoroughly test the strength of the Middlebury hockey representatives. Last week there was doubt as to whether the Panthers could meet Brown, but Harvard's acceptance of the January 7 date makes the former game possible on the ninth.

During the past week there has been some developmet in the ranks of the substitute men. Viehman seems to be the man for the right defense position, but the left defense position is still open. Coach Phelan may change Eaton from goal to defense and Brewer is also looking good for the position. If Eaton is shifted, Allen will be goalie. Melbye and Swett are the most promising freshmen out this year and should see service before the end of the season. Melbye is at center ice and Swett plays defense.

Painter Elected Manager of Freshman Football

H. Alan Painter '33, of Flemington, N. J., was elected manager of freshman football for the coming year at a meeting of the athletic council held Friday afternoon.

Mr. Painter was assistant manager of freshman football and chairman of the Frosh Frolic committee during his freshman year. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity .

Democracy League to Hold Conference Dec. 29 and 30

Students from forty eastern colleges and universities will gather at the Union Theological seminary in New York city, December 29 and 30, to consider from various angles the problem of unemployment, its causes and possible cures. The league for industrial democracy will sponsor the conference which will bring together leading authorities in the field of economics and sociology as speakers and discussion leaders.

The conference will close Tuesday, December 30 with a supper meeting of delegates to discuss organization of college liberal and radical groups, and suggest activities to direct attention toward the unemployment crisis. Peter Nehemkis, president of the intercollegiate student council of the league will preside.

Delegates and visiting college students are required to pay a conference fee of $1.00. The conference fee for other guests is $2.00. Students who expect to attend are requested to send notice to the office of the L. I. D., 112 East 19th street, New York city, as soon as possible.

Beta Psi and Alpha Sigma Phi Win Matches

Beta Psi took the lead in the intramural bowling league by taking four points from Delta Upsilon. Alpha Sigma Phi drew up to second place by taking three points from Sigma Phi Epsilon. In the other match played this week Chi Psi defeated Kappa Delta Rho three points to one.

The standing of the league is as follows:

Team	Won	Lost
Beta Psi	8	0
Alpha Sigma Phi	7	1
Sigma Phi Epsilon	5	3
Chi Psi	3	5
Kappa Delta Rho	1	3
Neutrals	0	4
Delta Upsilon	0	8

Informal Follows Game at Gymnasium Saturday

Approximately seventy couples danced to the strains of the Middleburians orchestra following the basketball game at the gym last Saturday night. Contrary to expectations, the soft lighting effect was not in evidence but this did not keep the participants from enjoying themselves to the full. The chaperons of the evening were Professor and Mrs. Rusby, and Professor and Mrs. Fife.

BASKETBALL TEAM LEAVES TOMORROW

Holy Cross Friday Evening and Worcester Tech Saturday Comprise the First Trip of the Season.

The basketball team will leave on its first trip of the season tomorrow evening. They will include two games in the trip, playing Holy Cross Friday evening and then playing Worcester Polytechnic institute on Saturday evening.

Middlebury's prospects on the trip are none of the best. Holy Cross, their first oponent is known to have a strong team, with their giant center playing a wonderful game. Their center is taller than any man on the Middlebury team and in a recent game with Arnold college, scored more than twenty of Holy Cross's 59 points. In this game, Holy Cross emerged the victor by a margin of almost thirty points which must mean some strength on their part. Last year Arnold badly defeated Springfield which was supposed to have a good team and if this is any indication of strength, then Holy Cross must have a good team.

The second game of the trip, that with Worcester, is being played under practically unknown conditions. Nothing is known about this team. Coach Beck will probably start the same lineup on the trip which he started against Clarkson last Saturday.

The Middlebury team is greatly handicapped by the lack of tall players, almost all the men now out being considerably shorter than the average of last year's team. Coach Beck, however, hopes to overcome this difficulty in the next games of the season.

Freshman Women Win Soph-Frosh Competition

The women's gymnastic competition between the freshman and sophomore classes, resulted in a victory for the freshman women, by the score 33-20½. These competitions are held three times during the year, and the class having the greatest number of points at the end of the third meet, has its name engraved on the silver trophy cup for skill in gymnastics.

Elaine Updyke '33, and Katherine Bell '34, were the chairmen in charge of the class challenges. The members of the coaching courses acted as referees and scorers. The entire competition was under the supervision of Miss Young and Miss Rosevear.

MIDDLEBURY OPENS COURT SEASON WITH VICTORY OVER CLARKSON TECH

herents should see a Middlebury team on the floor that bids fair to capture another Green Mountain conference title.

Clarkson looked good in the opening minutes of play. The Beckmen were nervous and tried too hard. The visiting team gleaned four points in short order on two fouls and a field goal before Corliss got the first goal of the season for the home team. The Middlebury quintet took exactly fifteen shots, both long and short, before their first score resulted. Forbes was the outstanding man on the Clarkson team with three field goals and two fouls to his credit.

First Half.

Towner, Clarkson center, captured the opening tip-off, but his team was unable to pierce the Middlebury five man defense. The Panthers took the ball out of bounds, and carried it down the floor only to lose it when Ashdown missed the first shot of the game. A moment later Ashdown fouled Rohrer, and the latter sunk his free try for the first point of the game. The Blue team showed plenty of spirit and managed to keep the ball in their possession most of the time, but to no avail. Both teams were shooting often, and both were missing just as often.

MacKenzie fouled Forbes, Clarkson forward, and the latter sunk his try. Forbes also got the first field goal of the game when he caught the Middlebury defense napping, and dropped the ball through the hoop after receiving a pass while he was alone beneath the basket. Corliss shot the first field goal of the season for Middlebury on a pass from Bullukian. Forbes dropped a long shot through the hoop from the middle of the floor, and followed it up with a nice one-hand shot from the side, making the score eight to two in favor of Clarkson. Middlebury called for time out to think it over.

After a series of passes, Ashdown sunk a short shot on a pass from Bullukian. Elderkin fouled Ashdown while he was shooting, and Ray sunk both free attempts. Another series of passes occurred with nothing of importance happening. Middlebury continued to monopolize the ball, but were unable to make good any of their numerous shots. The half ended with Clarkson in the lead, 8 to 6.

Second Half.

MacKenzie opened the second half with a successful foul shot. A moment later, Middlebury took the lead for the first time when Ashdown caged the ball on a rebound from MacKenzie's miss. Sullivan pulled a similar shot for Clarkson, and Forbes dropped in a free attempt to make the score 11 to 9 in favor of the visitors. Towner and Bullukian were guilty of a double foul, and Harry made good his attempt while his opponent missed. Corliss added two more points to Middlebury's total with a short shot from beneath the basket, and added another with a successful foul shot.

Paul went in at center for Corliss, the only Middlebury substitution. Elderkin and Ashdown each gleaned a single point for their teams by sinking their foul shots. Ashdown dropped in a nice shot on a rebound from Paul's miss, and the score was 16 to 12 in favor of the Panthers. Ashdown was fouled while shooting. He made his second shot good, and Elderkin left the game on personals, Sullivan taking his place and Mazzito replacing Sullivan at forward.

MacKenzie sunk a pretty long shot from the center of the floor. Hoyle fouled Rohrer while he was shooting, and Roher made both of his attempts good. Vroman entered the game for Mazzito, and dropped in a nice shot from the side. Clarkson was shooting from all angles of the floor in an attempt to snatch a last minute victory, but the game ended with the Panthers a point in the lead, 19 to 18.

VOLLEYBALL HONORS GO TO SOPH TEAM WHO DEFEATED JUNIORS FOR TITLE

The sophomores won the volleyball championship at the conclusion of a hectic second round of play. Until the final moment of play, a triple tie seemed inevitable. Upsets were numerous and favored teams failed to come through. The seniors, after fighting their way to a triple tie for first honors by beating the juniors and sophomores who were leading the race, were set back by the fast and steady freshman team.

The seniors started their rampage December 10, by trouncing the sophomore team in straight games by the scores, 21-18, 21-19. The seniors outplayed their opponents, and demonstrated remarkable steadiness, especially in the second game, when they worked from a score of 11-19 to a 21-19 win.

Seniors: Hasseltine, Legate, Stolte, Lewis, Hagen, Kellogg, Bull, Hosley, March.

Sophomores: Updyke, McMenemy, Wheaton, Delfs, Whittier, Markarian, Sheldon, Haynes, Wilder.

Substitutions: seniors — Simmons for March; sophomores — Omwake for Delfs, McKinnon for Whittier, Heald for Sheldon.

Scores: seniors — 21-18,21-19. Referee, C. Carrick. Scorer: M. Carrick '34.

The junior-freshman struggle, December 10, ended with the juniprs barely scraping through with a win, by the scores 19-21, 21-12, 21-11. This was the first evidence of strength that the freshman had given. They fought with determination throughout the entire match which was more closely contested than the scores would indicate.

Juniors: Harris, Coulter, Carpenter, Cady, Witt, Omwake, Merriam, Pope, Carrick.

Freshman: Webb, Bowerman, Bernard, Hemenway, Major, Bland, Tuthill, Fernalld, Bump.

Substitutions: juniors — Clark for Witt, Hawkes for Pope; freshmen — Smith for Bernard, Griffith for Bland.

Scores: juniors — 19-21-21-12,21-11.

Referee: Hosley '31. Scorer: M. Carrick '34.

The senior team showed its last year's championship form and fighting spirit in their game with the juniors, December 15, which the seniors won in straight games, by the scores 21-11, 21-19. The juniors were surprisingly slow in the first game; their set-up was poor, and their attack did not function smoothly. The seniors played a good passing game featured by a fine smashing attack, and after gaining the first game 21-11, they continued to contest every point without the slightest let-down until they crashed through the last game, 21-19.

Seniors: Hasseltine, Kellogg, Legate, Stolte, Hough, Hagen, March, Bull, Hosley.

Juniors: Harris, Cady, Carpenter, Carrick, Witt, Coulter, Merriam, Hawkes, Cressy.

Substitutions: seniors — Simmons for March.

Scores: seniors — 21-11,21-19.

Referee: Markarian '33. Scorer: M. Carrick '34.

The senior-freshman game, important in that a win for the seniors would bring about a triple tie between the seniors, juniors, and sophomores, took place December 16, when to the great disappointment of the senior supporters, their team lost to a balanced and spirited freshman team by the scores 21-19, 19-21, 21-18. Both teams dis-

TEA DANCE
Middlebury Inn
THURSDAY
December 18th
Three to Six P. M.
Couples, $1.00 — Stags, 50c

LITERATI BALL WILL HAVE TEN PIECE BAND

Black Panther Orchestra and Middleburians Unite to Form Superior Musical Group.

Instead of a six piece Black Panther orchestra playing for the Literati ball which is to be held at the Middlebury Inn January 18, the committee in charge of the dance is glad to announce that the Black Panther orchestra and the Middleburians have united, and music for the occasion will be furnished by a ten piece band, the newest, biggest, and best Black Panthers.

The combination should have the effect of restoring to the college the honor of having one of the best undergraduate bands in the east, and collegiate lovers of the light fantastic may well look forward to dancing to a band that will more than satisfy them in every respect. The new group hopes to incorporate the smoothness of the former Middleburians, at the same time showing the pep and versatility of the original Black Panthers. The combined novelties and vaudeville skits of the two bands should keep the crowd amused throughout the evening, and adding to that the combined repertoire of dance numbers that each band possesses, nothing should be lacking in the fulfillment of request numbers.

The Literati Ball has always been one of the most outstanding formals of the school year, and with this latest addition to its undenied prestige, this year's dance should prove more successful than ever. The members and try outs of the various literary staffs together with their guests are due for a rare treat, and a hundred percent attendance is expected.

German Club Sings Carols and Holds Christmas Party

The annual carol singing program of the German club was held Sunday morning at 6 a. m. when the members sang at the homes of President Moody and some of the professors.

The club's Christmas party was held last night in Hamlin hall. At this time a tableau, "Gloria in Excelsis" was presented. The members of the club exchanged presents, after which refreshments were served.

Harmonizes Music for Cantata.

James Thomson '29, arranged and harmonized the instrumental parts for the Christmas Cantata, Cradle of Bethlehem, and the voice parts for some numbers to be given by the Glee club this year. Mr. Thomson's music manuscript is not only legible, executed with the precision of steel engraving, but he also shows exceptional talent for harmonization for orchestra and choral scores.

Public Library and the Museum of Natural History to fall back on. You can't go wrong there!

Middlebury is to have its own unemployment conference some time in January. The students who attempt to get jobs during Christmas vacation will undoubtedly have a great deal of first hand material to offer at the time.

What we aren't sure of is whether Britain is going to grant dominion status to India, whether England is seeking this status from Mother India, or whether this is just another stunt to give the New York Times more news-stories and photos to syndicate.

Someone asked if the ship in the Durfee-Waite ad at the local cathedral of the cinema was the famous scow which makes one-way trips across the Styx or whether it was merely the night boat leaving Albany. Neither, my child, neither; 'tis the fair barque which inspired one of the recent Saxonian contribs.

"Free of charge our people have roads, schools, libraries, and sanitation," says a well known columnist who once lived in Washington. Funny, but we had always believed that was what taxes were for. (Just as we completed that, our chair collapsed. That's what we get for saying naughty things about great men.) Tsk, tsk.

GLEE CLUB CHOOSES CONTEST SELECTIONS

The Glee club will sing "Slumber Dearest" by Mendelssohn, and "Gamaliel Painter's Cane" at the New England intercollegiate glee club contest to be held February 27 at Bushnell memorial hall, Hartford, Connecticut.

The Middlebury songsters have advanced considerably in their harmony and song preparation as compared with this date of last year. Richard Fear, manager of the club, will conduct at the meet.

The selection committee of the contest has chosen the highly estimable "Feasting I Watch" by Edward Elgar as the prize composition to be sung by each club.

interest as it is concerned with a problem that is being discussed throughout the United States and Europe.

Boston university will be met in debate Friday evening, December 19. Middlebury will again support the negative case on the question of machine civilization. Debating on this same proposition, Boston university was recently defeated by the Scottish universities union of Glasgow and St. Andrew's.

Prof. P. C .Perkins will accompany the team on this trip in the capacity of coach.

Twenty-six Couples Enjoy Chi Psi Tea Dance Saturday

Twenty-six couples attended the tea dance held at the Chi Psi lodge last Saturday afternoon. Music was furnished by the combination radio and phonograph and a salad supper was served to the dancers. The chaperons were Professor and Mrs. Sholes, Miss Prudence Fish, and Mr. Harvey Hessler.

played steady passwork, fine set-up, and brilliant cross-court smashes. The freshman team was all-powerful, having plenty of speed and accuracy. The seniors put up a grim struggle, and showed some equally fine volleyball. The outcome of this match definitely placed the championship between the junior and sophomore teams.

Seniors: Legate, Bull, Simmons, Hosley, Kellogg, Stolte, March, Hough, Hagen.

Freshmen: Webb, Bowerman, Bernard, Hemenway, Major, Bland, Tuthill, Fernalld, Bump.

Substitutions: freshmen — Smith for Bernard.

Scores: freshmen — 21-19,19-21,21-18.

Referee: McNulty '31. Scorer: Buttolph '34.

The junior-sophomore championship tilt, December 16, ended with the sophomores gaining victory rather easily by the scores 21-14, 21-16. The juniors were not so formidable as in the previous two junior-sophomore frays; their attack, though good, was not deadly. The sophomores produced some noteworthy attack featuring crosscourt play, smashes and lobs. Since the quality of the set-up was even on both teams, the unexpected attack plays were of especial importance and accounted for most of the points.

Juniors: Harris, Landis, Carpenter, Witt, Carrick, Cady, Coulter, Merriam, Hawkes.

Sophomores: Updyke, McMenemy, Wheaton, McKinnon, Whittier, Markarian, Sheldon, Haynes, Wilder.

Substitutions: juniors — Clark for Witt; sophomores — Heald for Sheldon.

Scores: sophomores — 21-14,21-16.

Referee: Cressy '32. Scorer: Adams '32.

STUDENTS INVITED TO VISIT MACY'S

The R. H. Macy company of New York city is making special arrangements at this time for acquainting college undergraduates with the opportunities, types of work, etc., to be found in the Macy organization and is extending a general invitation to college students, particularly juniors and seniors who may be interested in the retail field to visit the Macy store in New York during the Christmas holidays, from December 19 to January 3, inclusive. Students desiring to take advantage of this invitation should go directly to the department of training on the sixteenth floor and inquire for those who are in charge of conducting college students through the store.

Members of the staff of the training department will answer questions, explain general Macy policies and methods and arrange for individuals to meet other executives who might give additional information desired about a particular branch of the organization. Groups will be taken around the building each day at 3 o'clock in order that those interested may get a first hand knowledge of the operations involved.
